Braley Business Systems, a leading office furniture and stationery provider in Bristol have completed the office refurbishment for Bristol Sport, headquartered at the newly re-designed Ashton Gate Stadium.

Bristol Sport, which promotes access to professional sport and participation in sport for all ages and capabilities, went out to tender in Q2 2015 looking for a reliable and cost effective provider to assist in the redesign and refit of its new office at Ashton Gate Stadium.

Bristol Sport initially invited five office furniture suppliers to take part in the tender but thanks to Braley Business Systems' hands-on approach, dedicated team and ability to deliver both on price and with the most suitable products for their requirements the tender was secured.

"Braley Business Systems was given a timeframe of 6 weeks to complete the installation and build of the new furniture. There was a requirement for additional flexibility on our part and the added complexity of liaising both with the construction team at Ashton Gate Stadium and Bristol Sport" says Matt Hope, Sales Manager at Braley Business Systems. "We needed to ensure that access to the newly built office was on time and available to us and I am pleased to say this went without a hitch and we completed our build ahead of the completion deadline".

Mark Kelly, chief of stadium operations at Bristol Sport said: "Right from the start, Matt spent time working with the team, understanding our requirements and vision for the office. He took us to both existing customers of theirs and the furniture manufacturer so that we had a full appreciation of our options and the various price points available. The level of customer service we received from everyone at Braley Business Systems has been and continues to be outstanding. We are pleased with the final results."

Since the completion of this project, Braley Business Systems and Bristol Sport continue to work together.

"This project demonstrates Braley's position as a leading office furniture and stationery supplier in the South West and our commitment to providing excellent customer service to our customers, who are looking to ensure that their employees have all the tools and facilities they need." says Ian Trueman, MD at Braley Business Systems.
